NOTED GENERAL IS VISITOR IN OGDEN

Veteran of Civil War Was the Last Commander to Fight.

pecial to The Tribune OGDEN, Sept. 27.-Gen. W. D. Hamilton of Columbus, O., and Mrs. Hamilton are the guests of Judge W. L. Maginnie and wife, and will remain in Ogden for a few days. Mrs. Hamilton is an aunt of Mrs. Maginnis and the General and Mrs. Hamilton are on their return home from visit to the Portland fair, to Los Angeles and to San Francisco to a visit to their daughter, Mrs. Maj. Gillett, wife of Maj. Gillett, now in Philadelphia as the chairman of the Gillett investigating com-mission, and the original exponent of the Oberlin Carter frauds in Georgia.

Long War Service.

Long War Service.

Gen. Hamilton is 70 years of age and a decidedly well-preserved man. He is a Scotchman by birth and carries all the sturdy qualities of that race. At the breaking out of the Civil war he and another brother and four cousins all went into the service of the Union. But two of them returned after the war and Gen. Hamilton was one of the last men with the rank of a General who engaged in actual hostilities.

He was under Gen. Sherman in the famous march to the sea and in North Carolina received direct instructions from Gen. Sherman to desist from further operations. He was then in command of a division of cavairy and was isolated from the main forces. For this reason he was the last commander to whom the terms of the peace were conveyed.

Today Gen. Hamilton and Dr. J. D. Carpahan, who was a Confederate cavairy officer, spent several hours in a review of the campaign in which they tried to annihilate each other.

Printers Issue Statement Blaming Union Headquarters.

Union Headquarters.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Sept. 27.—The strike committee appointed by Ogden Typographical union No. 236, after vain endeavors to first shut up the job printing shops and later to hold conference with the proprietors has issued what Is now a backdown of the strike. In an article which they have asked to have published they lay the entire blame for the attempted strike on the headquarters office of the International Typographical union, which, they say demanded that the eight-hour day be enforced in all offices in Ogden.

After reciting some of the details of their instructions and their efforts, the union states that: "The proprietors have been placed in a false light by a number of misleading statements which were not authorized by the union or its officers, and which were detrimental to all interests involved, as well as humilisting to the parties concerned. The union has at no time contemplated any action detrimental to the interest of the employers and it regrets the publication of these statements and denies all knowledge as to their source of reliability."

It was stated by an employer tonight that an arrangement had been reached whereby the printers would work eight and one-half hours at the schedule rate of $18 per week, and that when overtime was necessary the time should be put in at the same rate and not time and a half, as heretofore.

PORTLAND, Or. Sept. 26 —A special to the Oregonian from Salem, Or. states that as a result of the vigorous prosecutions of land fraud cases in this State about 20,000 acres of school land situated in the Blue Mountain forest reserve in eastern Oregon had been abandoned by locators who forfeited in the neighborhood of $10,000.

According to the Oregonian's correspondent, it is assumed that in most of these instances the land had been located by "dummies" and that the persons who provided the money became frightened and quietly abandoned all the claims at the same time making no effort to recover the money invested.

Mrs. Pendleton, who arrived in Chicago yesterday morning, almost fainted when brought before the accused woman, and refused to either admit or deny that she was the servant girl who left her home hurriedly when the diamonds disappeared. Mrs. Pendleton's conduct has shrouded the case in still deeper mystery, and the police are at a loss to know how to proceed. When pressed to make a statement one way or the other Mrs. Pendleton replied, "Not now."

Woman Had Physician Arrested. Woman Had Physician Arrested.

Mrs. Hill recently gained attention when she caused the arrest of Dr. Edward Alford, who lives in the Ivanhoe apartment building on the charge that he attempted to kiss her. Evidence has been heard in this case, and it was continued to next Monday afternoon by Justice Richardson. According to the Chicago and Cincinnati police, the woman suspect, who has lived at the Ivanhoe apartment building under the name of Mrs. Anna Hill, and who said last Wednesday afternoon that she was a widow, is really Annie Bradley of Cincinnati, whose picture is in the bureau of information at Cincinnati and Chicago. Detective Crim said she was arrested at Cincinnati as a pickpocket, and that she long had been known to the police.

Identified Picture of Servant.

Mrs. Pendleton went to the police head-quarters at Cincinnati, and there, it is said she identified a picture of Annie Bradley as one resembling that of the missing servant. Yesterday Mrs. Penditon was unable to make any positive identification of Mrs. Hill, neither would she admit, it is said, that Mrs. Hill was not the woman. For another half-hour Mrs. Hill, or An-nie Bradley, was detained by the police. Then she was released, and she hurriedly left the city hall, refusing to talk with any one.

According to Detective Sergt Kane, Mrs. Hill denies any connection with the theft of diamonds at the Pendleton home.

DIRECTORS OF FAIR FULL OF BUSINESS

Selecting Judges and Making Final Preparations for Meet.

Busy men these days are the directors f the Descret Agricultural and Manufacturing association. With the State fair of 1905 only four days distant, much remains to be done, although much has been done. The directors are meeting almost continuously morning afterneon and evening, passing on questions of interest to exhibitors, squeezing in a little more room here, adding new features, settling disputed points. Yesterday they gathered for the first time in the secretary's office at the State fair grounds.

Selection of Judges.

The chief work at hand was the selection of judges in the almost innumerable classes in which entries have been made. So important is this detail that the directors feel that they cannot afford to hurry it up. They want only judges in whom the public as well as the exhibitors will have the utmost confidence. The list of possibilities is, therefore, being carefully scruntinized and wherever there is a suggestion that this man or that man will not do, he is rejected.

Awards of Merit. Awards of Merit.

Awards of Merit.

The best experts that can be secured will be selected. For the bench show there will be dog specialists, for the grains and grasses at least one man who has made that department a life study, for the fruits a horticulturist of more than local reputation, for the chickens and horses and cattle and sheep and swine, men, and only men, who are thoroughly familiar with the fowls and animals. The awards will be really awards of merit, based on the judgment of judges whose reputations will be at stake.

Progress of Preparation.

hibitors under the personal supervision of President McDonald and Director Lester D. Freed. All of the directors have been working hard for weeks, but these two have been especially generous is giving their time and attention to the public welfare. Both feel encouraged to believe that their efforts will be rewarded by the most aucressful fair ever given in Utah.

More Stallroom Needed.

More Stallroom Needed.

H. C. Curtis, superintendent of specif, explained vesterday to the directors that he was badly crowded for stall room. Ho said that he had received many more entries than there was stall room for and asked that at least ten additional stalls be constructed at once. It is feared, however, that (averable action on Mr. Curtis's request will be impossible, owing to the short time before the opening and the fact that the funds are not available for the work.
